Notice of Change in Displayed Price and Shipping Charges

We would like to inform you that we will change the price display method and courier shipping charges for the Japanese Pharmacopoeia Reference Standard and other reference standards on October 1, 2024.

Currently, the displayed price of the reference standard includes the handling charge, but from October 1, the displayed price of the reference standard will not include the handling charges. Instead, the handling charges will not change and remain 10% of the price of the reference standard. Please confirm on the quotation/invoice that there will be no change in the total amount. In addition, the courier shipping charge will change from a flat rate to a different rate by country and region. For quotes or orders at the new price display method and the shipping charges, please contact us via our online store after October 1, 2024.

Please note that all quotations and invoices have an expiration date. Quotations and invoices received by September 30 can be used until the expiration date. If you need quotations and invoices with the new price and new shipping charge, please apply via our online store after October 1.

On the other hand, please note that quotations and invoices must be issued for each transaction and cannot be used after the transaction is completed even if they are within the expiration date.

We thank you for your support and look forward to serving you in the future.
